

THE CITIZEN.

VOL. IV.

A Family Paper

BEREA, MADISON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1902.

Fifty cents a year.

NO 9

IDEAS.

True greatness never happens.
The battles of the soul no man can fight for another.

"Applause is the tonic of success."

"When a fellow makes a hit let him know it in a good, round, royal way."

You can sometimes see pretty well into the future if you get the right focus on the past.—PUCK.

TAKE NOTICE.

Read "Fine offer to students" on last page, and send for sample copies to use in your canvass. Send now.

On Sunday at 11 a. m. Dr. Burgess will preach at the Tabernacle. Subject: "A many Sided Christ," and at 7:30 p. m. a Stereopticon lecture, "A Mighty Struggle."

Just twenty-one days and the Fall Term of Berea College opens.
On Wednesday, September 10 hundreds of young men and women will enter this College for the year 1902-3.
Will you be of the number?

FROM THE WIDE WORLD.

Japan is re-arming her army with a new rifle and selling the old rifles to China.

King Edward has promised to visit Ireland in February, possibly in November.

The Cuban republic desires to become a member of the Universal Postal convention.

Charles L. Fair and wife, of San Francisco, were killed on August 15, near Evreux, France, by the collapse of their automobile.

IN OUR OWN COUNTRY.

Fire at Hamilton, O., Saturday morning destroyed property worth $250,000.

The estimate of this year's crop of rice is 4,000,000, bags our largest crop of this cereal so far.

Since 1884 up to June 30, 1902, congress has appropriated $7,150,000 for work on the Missouri river.

A canal between Chicago and St.
Louis is under consideration by army officers appointed to investigate the plan.

In the last 16 years Methodism in America has built, and opened 23 hospitals. Twenty of these institutions are under the management of the order of deaconesses.

One hundred thousand dollars has been subscribed for the endowment of the William Henry Green professorship in the Old Testament department of Princeton Theological seminary.

A new method has been adopted in Jackson, Miss., to break up the "blind tigers." The City council has adopted a resolution, providing that the member of the police force, who does not wipe out of existence every blind tiger on his beat within the next 30 days, will be summarily discharged.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY.

The State Guard encampment at Mammoth Cave broke on Monday, the 18th.

Two men were killed by a live wire
during the storm near Pineville Friday afternoon.

The State Sunday-school convention met at Hopkinsville this week, from Aug. 19-21.

A postoffice has been established at Couch, Owsley county, with Andrew J. Couch, postmaster.

The Republicans of the tenth congressional district last Friday nominated John G. White, of Clark county, for congress.

The insane asylums of the State are worse crowded than at any time in their history, and there is now no more room for female patients.

In Louisville last Friday a severe storm raged, and the wind attained a velocity of 58 miles an hour. Rain fell in torrents. Small damage.

Mrs. Mary Bell, probably the oldest woman in Kentucky, died at her home near Dunnville, Casey county,
Thursday, at the age of 106 years.

The 6,000 acres of mountain land in Harlan county sold by Special Commissioner W. F. Hall, of the Jefferson county court; was bid in by W. S.
Bramlet, of Carlisle, for $56,160. The town property adjacent to Harlan C.
H. brought $12,000 for 35 acres.

A TRUE PATRIOT.

I have often wished that my friends in Berea could know the kind of people who are giving money to support the College. Yesterday I noticed a memorial tablet, which shows the ideas of the old New England people who made America the great nation that it is.

Samuel Appleton died the year before I was born, but this description of him shows what a true patriot is. Berea counts among its friends many such men to day. Read the inscription. Every line is eloquent:

WM. GOODELL FROST.

Sacred to the memory of
SAMUEL APPLETON
A Boston Merchant

Honored for his uprightness, eminent for his liberality.

An integrity without guile,

A child like faith in God,

A never failing benevolence toward his neighbor,

Marked his whole character and career.

His charity expanded as his means increased;

And the wealth acquired in honorable labor

Was held as if in trust,

For the good of his fellow-men.

A friend to the poor, a helper to the humble;

His hand and heart were open to every righteous cause.

Dying in the fullness of years, a private citizen,

He was lamented as a public benefactor.

His name will be preserved to coming times

By the numerous institutions of Learning, Philanthropy and Religion,

Which were established, sustained or aided

By his munificence, alike in life and death

He died July 12, 1853, aged 87 years.

COLLEGE ITEMS.

Hezzie Washburn is pit boss at the brickyard.

Mrs. Hoag, matron of Ladies Hall,
called on Mr. and Mrs. Nixon.

Paul Derthick is working on a farm near Geneva, Ohio.

On a trip through Ohio Mr. Shrock called on Mr. and Mrs. Nixon.

The first kiln of bricks made largely by students is now being burnt.

The College brickyard has received its first order for a car load of bricks.

Mrs. Jennie Lester Hill returned
Tuesday from her Owlsley county trip.

Last week three new teachers were elected. Watch The CITIZEN next week for an account of each.

Several Berea professors visited the Madison county Colored teachers' institute last week at Richmond.

Prof. Williams, of Covington Colored High school, a Berea alumnus, made a recent visit here with Mr. Tinsley.

Miss Caroline R. Almy returned Tuesday. Miss Almy has recovered her health, and will resume her duties when term opens.

Supt. King has returned from Boston with the completed plans for the new Men's Industrial building.

Brother Teeters writes from Weiser, Ida., "Please send my CITIZEN to above address. We came here with a hope that I may recover some of my lost strength."

Mr. Dizney and family arrived Monday. They will live at the Pigg house on Walnut Meadow pike. Mr. Diz-ney will be Assistant Dean of the Preparatory department.

James M. Racer leaves tomorrow for Ohio. When he returns in about ten days he will have with him Mrs.
Racer, nee Miss Myrtle Burr. They will live at Mrs. Todd's.

The College is furnishing all dormitory rooms with bedding and towels.

These will be laundered in the College laundry. Steps are now being taken to secure an increased water supply for Ladies Hall.

Homer Martin, of Stanford University, Cal., a former student at Berea,
writes, "Without THE CITIZEN I am losing all knowledge of Berea. I graduate here next year. Stanford is a lovely place, yet I always think of old Berea with the fondest recollections."

Instructor Todd has made a careful chemical analysis of the well at the brickyard, and finds it excellent for drinking. He sums up thus:

"The sanitary examination shows that the organic matter present is rather low in amount and is mostly of vegetable origin, and due, probably,

to the coal soot washed in from the roof. I conclude that the water is perfectly safe as a drinking water."

Miss A. Laura Cravens has beautified the walls, and is making arrangements for having pictures upon the

study-room at Lincoln Hall. The expense of $100 has been donated by many of the friends of Berea College.

Among the number were James Lane

Allen; Mrs. Madeline McDowell

Breckenridge, a granddaughter of

Henry Clay; Mrs. Jere Morton, of

Lexington; Mr. J. G. Schmidlapp, and

Prof. Philip Van Ness, of Cincinnati.

NOTICE.

TO STUDENTS COMING TO BEREA FOR
THE FALL TERM SEPTEMBER 10, 1902.

Excursion trains from Chicago,
Cleveland and other points will meet at Cincinnati on the morning of September 9, 1902.

The Berea Y. M. C. A. extends greeting to all young men who are planning to come to Berea this fall.

The association holds its regular meetings every Sunday evening at 6:30 p. m. in Phi Delta Hall to which all young men are cordially invited.

Young men will be on the train wearing Y. M. C. A. badges to greet you and to give you any information you may desire concerning the association or the College. "Watch for the badge."

Hoping to meet you at the opening of the fall term, we are

Sincerely yours

Y. M. C. A., Berea, Ky.

For further information address
J. R. Young, Berea, Ky.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS.

The following is a clipping from the Carter County Tribune relative to the closing proceedings of their county institute:

Resolution No. 6. We wish to extend to Prof. Dinsmore, of Berea College, a hearty welcome in our midst, and further do we thank him for the excellent lecture given in Alpha Hall.

And further do we thank Mr. David Martin for the free use of Alpha Hall during Prof. Dinsmore's lecture.

James M. Racer leaves tomorrow
for Ohio. When he returns in about ten days he will have with him Mrs.
Racer, nee Miss Myrtle Burr. They
will live at Mrs. Todd's.

The College is furnishing all dormitory rooms with bedding and towels.

These will be laundered in the College laundry. Steps are now being taken to secure an increased water supply for Ladies Hall.

Homer Martin, of Stanford University, Cal., a former student at Berea,
writes, "Without THE CITIZEN I am
losing all knowledge of Berea. I graduate here next year. Stanford is a lovely place, yet I always think of old Berea with the fondest recollections."

Instructor Todd has made a careful chemical analysis of the well at
the brickyard, and finds it excellent
for drinking. He sums up thus:

"The sanitary examination shows
that the organic matter present is

rather low in amount and is mostly of vegetable origin, and due, probably,

to the coal soot washed in from the roof. I conclude that the water is perfectly safe as a drinking water."

Miss A. Laura Cravens has beautified the walls, and is making arrangements for having pictures upon the

study-room at Lincoln Hall. The expense of $100 has been donated by

many of the friends of Berea College.

Among the number were James Lane

Allen; Mrs. Madeline McDowell

Breckenridge, a granddaughter of

Henry Clay; Mrs. Jere Morton, of

Lexington; Mr. J. G. Schmidlapp, and

Prof. Philip Van Ness, of Cincinnati.

The 6,000 acres of mountain land in

Harlan county sold by Special Commissioner W. F. Hall, of the Jefferson

county court; was bid in by W. S.

Bramlet, of Carlisle, for $56,160. The

town property adjacent to Harlan C.

H. brought $12,000 for 35 acres.

The 6,000 acres of mountain land in

Harlan county sold by Special Commissioner W. F. Hall, of the Jefferson

county court; was bid in by W. S.

Bramlet, of Carlisle, for $56,160. The

town property adjacent to Harlan C.

H. brought $12,000 for 35 acres.

The 6,000 acres of mountain land in

DRINK AND THINKING.

A FLIPPANT QUERY THAT IS EASILY ANSWERED.

We wish to answer seriously a seemingly flippant inquiry, omitting, of course, the signature of the writer, says the New York Journal.

"Will you tell me how I manage to think my most beautiful thoughts in drink?"

Some men really do their best work under the influence of drink for this reason: Drink has weakened their nerves and put their constitutions and vitality permanently below par. They do their best work when they drink just as a poor, thin, abused, tired car horse does his best work when he is lashed with a whip. This does not speak well for the whip, does it? It does not prove that the lashing of the horse is a noble process or the whip an admirable instrument. It simply proves that if you abuse an unfortunate creature and render him unfit for work, you must abuse him still more to get a little work out of him.

You think your most beautiful thoughts in drink for various reasons.

In the first place, when you drink you are quite easily pleased, and you are pleased most easily with yourself. If you were sober, your thoughts would not seem so beautiful to you. Often what you think in drink you would be very sorry to hear repeated in your dull, sober hours.

In the second place, feeling is essential to any strong thinking. It is essential to the expression of any strong emotion. The man who drinks hard or even comes to rely to any extent upon drink has dead nerves and a dead imagination when his drink time is over.

Drink sets the heart to beating, it sets the blood to pumping through the brain, it stimulates the mysterious combustion of matter which results in thought, and emotion becomes stronger in proportion to the strength that accompanies this combustion.

The coward wants to fight when he is drunk. He has some feeling. The dull mind gets imaginative. It has some feeling. This does not glorify the coward or make the dull mind better. It usually makes both ridiculous and pathetic in addition to being cowardly and dull.

Sop drinking for six months, sleep two hours more per day than you sleep at present, take in more fresh air, think steadily and soberly instead of talking boisterously, as you probably do now. We venture to predict that you will soon find springing up in your head some very acceptable "thinks" with which drink will have nothing to do.

MUNICIPAL WISDOM.

TEMPERANCE POLICY OF AN ENGLISH COUNTY COUNCIL.

The London Manual, issued by Messrs. Lloyd, summarizes the temperance policy of the county council. The chief "principle" is the abandonment of licenses acquired in connection with street improvements. Other "planks" in the council's temperance policy are broadly stated as follows:

First.—The abolition of alcoholic drink from the dietary of the inmates of the lunatic and imbecile asylums and the music halls and the prohibition of the sale of drink in the auditoriums.

Second.—The provision of accommodation in other places than public houses for the holding of inquests.

Third.—The abolition of promenades in giving of money in lieu of a beer allowance to the officers.

Fourth.—The provision of free dressing rooms in the public parks, thus removing the necessity of cricketers, footballers and others using licensed premises for that purpose.

Fifth.—The refusal to allow intoxicating drink to be sold in the parks and open spaces, and the provision that all refreshments shall be of the best quality and sold at the lowest possible tariff.

Sixth.—The provision of tea and coffee, etc., for firemen when engaged at fires.

Up to the present time the council has allowed to lapse ninety-four licenses, the approximate premium value of which is estimated at £254,000.

AN ANTITEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

In spite of the general campaign against intemperance and the abuse of alcoholic drinks, especially absinthe, a company has actually issued a prospectus in glorification of the green liquor. It is called "The General Union For the Defense of Absinthe," and its object, says the Paris Messenger, is to be found in Paris as well as in the provinces and abroad centers for the purpose of combating the propagandists carried on against intemperance in general and the consumption of absinthe in particular. A perusal of the prospectus leaves one wondering what madmen are these, but the cat is let out of the bag in the final clause, which refers to the "rational defense of absinthe and the interests it represents." The whole thing thus turns out to be a move on the part of the manufacturers, who are seriously alarmed by the growth of the temperance movement.

A WISE POLICE CAPTAIN.

Mrs. Mary O'Rourke of South Chicago found her husband in a saloon, and she proceeded to relieve him of what money he had left, as her family was in dire need. The police department was called on to settle the disturbance, and Captain Shippy said, "If more women would take from their husbands the money they earn and use it for the needs of the family, there would be fewer drunken husbands and more domestic harmony."

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

GEMS GLEANED FROM THE TEACHINGS OF ALL DENOMINATIONS.

The highest test of love is obedience. —Rev. Dr. Charles W. Byrd, Methodist, Atlanta, Ga.

OUR INHERITANCE.

Do we realize the inheritance left us by a crucified God? —Rev. P. C. O'Reilly, Catholic, Brooklyn.

THE CHRISTIAN'S PRIVILEGE.

The Christian's privilege is one of great freedom. —Rev. Dr. William J. Holtzclaw, Baptist, Atlanta, Ga.

THE LAW OF NATURE.

If men will commit sin, they must suffer for it somehow, sometime, somewhere. This is a law of nature. —Rev. Dr. Charles Stelzle, Presbyterian, St. Louis.

TWO SIDES OF LIFE.

To cleave to that which is good is but one side of the Christian life; the other half is to abhor that which is evil. —Rev. A. S. Garver, Unitarian, Worcester, Mass.

SELF DENIAL MEANS PROGRESS.

Self denial always means progress. It takes the one who practices it from a lower to a higher plane. —Rev. Dr. J. N. Beard, President San Francisco National Training School.

HOPE FOR SOMETHING BETTER.

The man who lives without ambition or without the hope of making something better out of his life is practically dead. —Rev. Dr. Frank De Witt, Talmage, Presbyterian, Chicago.

RELIGION AND CITIZENSHIP.

If Christians were better citizens, the gospel might have a chance. The sentiment of sermons and gospel meetings should be carried to the polls. —Rev. Dr. Bacon, Indianapolis, Ind.

BURDEN MAKERS.

Every worthless man increases the weight of the world's sorrow. Every selfish man adds to the pressure of the world's misery. —Rev. Dr. Donald Sage Mackay, Reformed Church, New York.

DESTINY OF THE RACE.

The destiny of the race depends upon what men love and what they know and not upon the kind of fruit the first individual man or woman may have eaten. —Rev. Adolph Roeder, Swedishborgian, Orange, N. J.

THE MOST USELESS THING.

The most useless thing in all this world is doubt. It has left a path of desolation through all history. It makes no heroes, wins no battles, settles no contests, builds no empires. Conviction does. Believe your belief and doubt your doubts. —Rev. Dr. Sneed, Presbyterian, Pittsburgh.

TEMPTATIONS OF COLLEGE LIFE.

Men speak about the temptations of college life as if there were no temptations in business, as if the banker and broker lived in a holier atmosphere and as if the apostle of Wall street were in closer touch with the Ten Commandments than other men. —Rev. Dr. Paton to Students of Princeton University.

SUPREMACY OF CHRIST.

Among the changes taking place in the political, social and literary world, while the leaders of the past are relegated to the rear and those whom our fathers honored are despised by their sons, Christ steadily holds his grip on the lives of men and women everywhere. —Rev. N. R. Hinds, Methodist, Chicago.

SPIRITUAL TRIUMPH OF CHRIST.

The spiritual triumph of Christ over the interior being of humanity is much more wonderful and deep than the influence of his religion over the standards of art, literature, civics or social intercourse. Zealous lovers of Christianity ought to keep this in mind when they are fearful of the spread of modern unbelief and indifference. —Rev. Henry O'Keefe, Catholic, San Francisco.

ETHICS WITHOUT DOCTRINE.

The popular cry is for the ethics of Christ without his doctrinal statements. That means to stop at the alphabet of Christianity. Such a lack of ambition will result either in unhappiness, because we have not given the soul the supply it must have, or in inconsistency of life, because it leaves us in ignorance of the orders under which we are professing to sail. —Bishop Cheney, Episcopalian, Chicago.

STANDARD OF RELIGIOUS FAITH.

As the ages run on the authority of Jesus becomes more and more the final normal standard of religious faith. The world is steadily losing satisfaction in the oracles of philosophers and in the doctrines of dogmatists; hence creeds and councils are of lighter weight than ever they have been in Christian times. Bold and blatant unbelief is neither louder nor as loud in its assertions as it once was. —Rev. J. L. Withrow, Congregationalist, Boston.

DEMANDS OF THE WORLD.

When you try to suit the church to the demands of the world, you will end in its entire destruction as a force of good and righteousness. You will find the real underlying objection that many have to the church is that it forbids a life of sin. Some seem to have the idea that the church should relieve men of all labor; that it should make life one continual picnic and holiday; that it should refuse the satisfaction of no desire. —Rev. J. W. Romich, Lutheran, Allegheny City, Pa.

THE DIVINE AUTHORITY.

The divine authority of Jesus Christ distinctly prohibits any modern Joshua from killing his way into any modern Canaan, and if the world deems necessary such things as are being done in South Africa and the Philippines it has no right to claim any Christian sanction for the enterprises and the methods employed. The only point we are just now making is that, granting that the brute policy is necessary and therefore right, we cannot put Christ's name to it. —Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, Presbyterian, New York.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON VII, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, AUG. 24.

TEXT OF THE LESSON, NUM. XIII, 1-3; 25-33 AND XIV, 1-4—MEMORY VERSES, 30-33—GOLDEN TEXT, PS. XI, 4—COMMENTARY PREPARED BY REV. D. M. STEARNS.

[Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.]

1-3. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Send thou me men that they may search the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel.

When they came to the borders of the land which God had promised to them (for it was only eleven days' journey from Horeb to Kadesh-barnea), Moses said: "Behold, the Lord thy God set the land before thee. Go up and possess it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath said unto thee. Fear not, neither be discouraged." But the people came to Moses and asked that men be sent to search out the land and bring back word as to the way to go and what cities to enter (Deut. 1, 2, 21-23). The idea of spies therefore originated with Israel, and the Lord gave commandment to have it so, because they wanted it so, just as afterward the Lord commanded Samuel to give them a king because they insisted on having a king like other nations (1 Sam. viii, 4-9, 19-22). Read Ex. iii, 7, 8; vi, 6-8, and consider it well and say in the face of such assurances if the people's request for spies was not simply a lack of faith in God.

25-29. And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

They could not but testify that it was as God had said, a land flowing with milk and honey (Ex. iii, 8; xxxiii, 3), but they had been using their natural eyes more than the eyes of their hearts (Eph. 4, 18, R. V.), and instead of seeing only God and His goodness and His promises they saw difficulties which seemed to them insurmountable, for they forgot the deliverance from Egypt, and the dividing of the Red sea, and the quails and the manna so wondrously given, and so they talk of walled cities and giants and a strong people, and they seem not to reckon upon God at all. They believed not His word (Ps. evi, 21, 22, 24).

30. And Caleb still said, the people before Moses said, Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are well able to overcome it.

This was no vain boast or reliance upon themselves, but words uttered from a heart stayed upon Jehovah. Hear Caleb and Joshua in chapter xiv, 6-9: "If the Lord delight in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it us; * * * only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land; * * * the Lord is with us. Fear them not." Listen to this same Caleb forty-five years later when he asked Joshua for the mountain where the giants were, "And now, behold, the Lord hath kept me alive, as He said, these forty and five years, * * * if so be the Lord will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the Lord said" (Josh. xiv, 10-12). He wholly followed the Lord and relied upon Him.

51-53. But the men that went up with him said, We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we.

Thus they brought up an evil report of the land, a slander upon the land (xiv, 36). They saw the giants, and they saw themselves as grasshoppers. It was a case of "we" and "they," but not a word about God. They are stronger than we. We were in their sight as grasshoppers. In our conflicts with the enemy as we pass through this wilderness or sojourn in the pleasant land everything depends upon our point of vision. If we see things from our standpoint, the giants and walled cities will seem very real, but if, like Caleb and Joshua, we stand with God all difficulties will seem as nothing. When David went to meet Goliath, he did not consider his own weakness.

xi, 1. And all the congregation lifted up their voice and cried, and the people wept that night.

No wonder they acted thus when they were so unbelieving and rebellious against God. They were within sight and reach of the good land, but occupied with themselves and despising the promises of God and even God Himself. See the record of a previous weeping in Num. xi, 4, 10, 13, 18, 20, and a later one in Num. xxv, 6, and note that it was all because of unbelief, as was the weeping of Mary Magdalene at the tomb on the resurrection morning. Joy and peace come by believing, but in no other way (Rom. xv, 13; John xiv, 1, 27; xx, 27-29).

2. And all the children of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron.

They even wished they were dead or might die in the wilderness, and many of them got their wish. Their thought was to get rid of their trouble. They had no thought or desire that God might be glorified in their death. Contrast John xxi, 16; Phil. i, 20. See records of other murmurings in Ex. xv, 24; xvi, 2; xvii, 3; Num. xi, 11, 41. They did not consider that their weeping was in the ears of the Lord and their murmurings against Him (Num. xi, 18; xvi, 26, 27; Ex. xvi, 8), nor that when they complained it displeased the Lord (Num. xi, 1).

4. And they said one to another, Let us make a captain and let us return into Egypt.

The Lord Himself was their captain, as He also is ours (Josh. v, 14; II Chron. xiii, 2; Heb. ii, 10), but they wanted no more of Him. Stephen says that in their hearts they turned back again into Egypt, and Nehemiah says that in their rebellion they appointed a captain to return to their bondage (Acts vii, 39; Neh. ix, 17). Let us consider what is written about looking back in Gen. xix, 26; Luke ix, 62; xvii, 32, and contrast looking forward and upward in Prov. iv, 25; Heb. xii, 2; Phil. iii, 20.

5. And they said one to another, Let us make a captain and let us return into Egypt.

THE HOME.

WORTH KNOWING.

See that your closets are well-ventilated.

Housekeepers should not use soap when cleaning matting. When washing is necessary, use warm soft water with a little salt dissolved in it.

Whenever vegetables put in tins are opened and only partly used, do not allow the remainder to stand in the tins, but turn them out into an earthen bowl and put in a cool place.

Spots on a silk blouse can be cleaned with benzine. Use a piece of new clean flannel and rub gently, afterwards exposing the garment in the air to dry. On no account use the burner near a light as it is highly inflammable.

To remove paint from glass wet the spot with strong liquid ammonia, being careful not to let the ammonia run down on the window paint or varnish. After two or three applications scrape gently with a piece of soft wood, then rub with a paper wet with ammonia.

CHILDREN'S MANNERS.

In many American homes, lack of manners is fast becoming something akin to lack of morals. The grandmother and guest are frequently forced into a secondary position in conversation, the tea table talk being monopolized by children's chatter and clamor.

Deference to age is conspicuous by its absence. The child is encouraged to think of himself first, and others last, for fear that his "spontaneity" be checked. Among well-bred Europeans, the American child is usually considered a nuisance, to be held up as a warning. Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer tells a story of her experience in a German railway train, when a tiny Karl, who had committed some little rudeness, was reprimanded in a shocked tone by his mother. "My son," said she, "what shall I do with you? You behave just like an American child." Evidently nothing more crushing could have been said. The traveler, who has once lived with foreign children and observed their sweet courtesies and absence of pettiness, and has seen how happy children are in considering others, may well desire that our active, vigorous American children may add a new grace to the other charms which make them the light and joy of our homes. —The Congregationalist.

HIS SIGHT THREATENED.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison on his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. For sale by East End Drug Co.

A SHOCKING CALAMITY.

"Lately befall a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kellett, of Williford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly cured him." It's simply wonderful for Burns, Boils, Piles and all skin eruptions. It is the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by East End Drug Co.

THE BEST PHYSIC—CHAMBERLAIN'S STOMACH AND LIVER TABLETS.

Easy to take. Pleasant in effect. For sale by S. E. Welch, Jr.

THE FARM.

The farm is not only a source of revenue to its owner, but offers him many opportunities for improvement in business. While the farmer may meet with misfortune during unfavorable seasons, yet if he owns the farm he has at least the means for employment, and he need not be idle during any season of the year. The farm, however, does not yield crops free of charge to the farmer. The fertility of the soil may be

This is a Home Paper
in every sense.

All the News
Choice Reading
Good Stories

FOR INSTANCE:

We shall soon begin publishing
one of the most powerful serials of the day.

Chattanooga,
A Tale of the Civil War.
Full of Adventure and Romance.

Unless you are a Subscriber you may miss this and many other good things.

Progress In Korea.

The Korean emperor rides a bicycle, the palace of Seoul is lighted by electricity and furnished with elevators, and the public officials got away with public moneys last year to the amount of a couple of million yen. This led the Korean prime minister to adopt a very singular plan to stop the leaks of the treasury. The official whose embezzlement foots up to more than 2,000 yen shall suffer the penalty of death. This makes the little thieves very active.—New Haven Register.

Keene's Manner.

James R. Keene is very emphatic in his likes and dislikes of men. To a friend he is always most genial, but his glance freezes the man he does not like on his first approach and often before he has a chance to utter a word. His estimate of those he does not like is unique—the laconic explanation, "Pugh!" Whenever Mr. Keene's associates hear him give vent to that expression they know well what it means—there is no hope for that man if Mr. Keene can in any way thwart him.

A Blood Stained Book.

M. Diraison, a lieutenant in the French navy, who wrote a book entitled "Les Maritimes," for which he was cashiered, is being kept busy fighting duels with people referred to in it. He fought his fourth duel recently with a son of the Russian consul at Toulon. M. Diraison was wounded slightly in the arm. As soon as he shall have recovered he will begin a fresh series of duels with naval officers. So far he has been wounded twice and has wounded two adversaries.

A Perilous Mission

Full of thrilling dangers and hair-breadth escapes was the errand the young man was about to enter upon, and the story of his adventures is one of the most powerful in modern fiction.

Make sure you do not miss the opening chapters of

Chattanooga,

a tale of the Civil War, soon to begin in this paper.

SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE

Henry L. Shattuck, of Shellsburg Iowa, was cured of a stomach trouble with which he had been afflicted for years, by four boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He had previously tried many other remedies and a number of physicians without relief. For sale by S. E. WELCH, Jr.

Black Rock
By RALPH CONNOR

FOR INSTANCE:

Then I played the heathen and raged, as Graeme would have said, till Craig smiled a little wryly and said:

"You exhaust yourself, old chap. Have a pipe—do." And after a pause he added in his own way: "What would you have? The path lies straight from my feet. Should I quit it? I could not so disappoint you—and all of them."

And I knew he was thinking of Graeme and the lads in the mountains he had taught to be true men. It did not help my rage, but it checked my speech, so I smoked in silence till he was moved to say:

"And after all, you know, old chap, there are great compensations for all losses, but for the loss of a good conscience toward God what can make up?"

But, all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

"What of the younger men?" I asked.

"Bright, keen, generous fellows—in things theoretical omniscient, but in things practical quite helpless. They toss about great ideas as the miners lumps of coal. They can call them by their book names easily enough, but I often wonder whether they could put them into English. Some of them I coveted for the mountains, men with clear heads and big hearts and built after Sandy McNaughton's model. It does seem a sinful waste of God's good human stuff to see these fellows potter away their lives among theories, living and dead, and end up by producing a book. They are all either making or going to make a book. A good thing we haven't to read them. But here and there among them is some quiet chap who will make a book that men will tumble over each other to read."

Then we paused and looked at each other.

"Well?" I said.

He understood me.

"Yes," he answered slowly, "doing great work. Every one worships her just as we do, and she is making them all do something worth while, as she used to make us."

He spoke cheerfully and readily, as if he were repeating a lesson well learned, but he could not humbug me. I felt the heartache in the cheerful tone.

"Tell me about her," I said, for I knew that if he would talk it would do him good, and talk he did, often forgetting me, till, as I listened, I found myself looking again into the fathomless eyes and hearing again the heart searching voice. I saw her go in and out of the little red tiled cottages and down the narrow back lanes of the village; I heard her voice in a sweet, low song by the bed of a dying child or pouring forth floods of music in the great new hall of the factory town near by, but I could not see, though he tried to show me, the stately, gracious lady receiving the country folk in her home. He did not linger over that scene, but went back again to the gate cottage where she had taken him one day to see Billy Breen's mother.

"I found the old woman knew all about me," he said simply enough, "but there were many things about Billy she had never heard, and I was glad to put her right on some points, though Mrs. Mavor would not hear it."

He sat silent for a little, looking into the coals, then went on in a soft, quiet voice:

"It brought back the mountains and the old days to hear again Billy's tones in his mother's voice and to see her sitting there in the very dress she wore the night of the league, you remember—some soft stuff with black lace about it—and to hear her sing as she did for Billy. Ah! Ah!"

His voice unexpectedly broke, but in a moment he was master of himself and begged me to forgive his weakness. I am afraid I said words that should not be said, a thing I never do except when suddenly and utterly upset.

"I am getting selfish and weak," he said. "I must get to work. I am glad to get to work. There is much to do, and it is worth while, if only to keep one from getting useless and lazy."

"Useless and lazy!" I said to myself, thinking of my life beside his and trying to get command of my voice, so as not to make quite a fool of myself, and for many a day those words goaded me to work and to the exercise of some mild self denial. But, more than all else, after Craig had gone back to the mountains Graeme's letters from the railway construction camp stirred one to do unpleasant duty long postponed and rendered uncomfortable my hours of most luxurious ease. Many of the old gang were with him, both of lumbermen and miners, and Craig was their minister, and the letters told of how he labored by day and by night along the line of construction, carrying his tent and kit with him, preaching straight sermons, watching by sick men, writing their letters and winning their hearts, making strong their lives and helping them to die well when their hour came.

One day these letters proved too much for me, and I packed away my paints and brushes and made my vow unto the Lord that I would be "useless and lazy" no longer, but would do something with myself. In consequence I found myself within three weeks walking the London hospitals, finishing my course, that I might join that band of men who were doing something with life or, if throwing it away, were not losing it for nothing. I had finished being a fool, I hoped, at least a fool of the useless and luxurious kind. The letter that came from Graeme in reply to my request for a position on his staff was characteristic of the man, both new and old, full of gayest humor and most earnest welcome to the work.

Mrs. Mavor's reply was like herself: "And after all, you know, old chap, there are great compensations for all losses, but for the loss of a good conscience toward God what can make up?"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

"What of the younger men?" I asked.

"Bright, keen, generous fellows—in things theoretical omniscient, but in things practical quite helpless. They toss about great ideas as the miners lumps of coal. They can call them by their book names easily enough, but I often wonder whether they could put them into English. Some of them I coveted for the mountains, men with clear heads and big hearts and built after Sandy McNaughton's model. It does seem a sinful waste of God's good human stuff to see these fellows potter away their lives among theories, living and dead, and end up by producing a book. They are all either making or going to make a book. A good thing we haven't to read them. But here and there among them is some quiet chap who will make a book that men will tumble over each other to read."

Then we paused and looked at each other.

"Well?" I said.

He understood me.

"Yes," he answered slowly, "doing great work. Every one worships her just as we do, and she is making them all do something worth while, as she used to make us."

He spoke cheerfully and readily, as if he were repeating a lesson well learned, but he could not humbug me. I felt the heartache in the cheerful tone.

"Tell me about her," I said, for I knew that if he would talk it would do him good, and talk he did, often forgetting me, till, as I listened, I found myself looking again into the fathomless eyes and hearing again the heart searching voice. I saw her go in and out of the little red tiled cottages and down the narrow back lanes of the village; I heard her voice in a sweet, low song by the bed of a dying child or pouring forth floods of music in the great new hall of the factory town near by, but I could not see, though he tried to show me, the stately, gracious lady receiving the country folk in her home. He did not linger over that scene, but went back again to the gate cottage where she had taken him one day to see Billy Breen's mother.

"I found the old woman knew all about me," he said simply enough, "but there were many things about Billy she had never heard, and I was glad to put her right on some points, though Mrs. Mavor would not hear it."

He sat silent for a little, looking into the coals, then went on in a soft, quiet voice:

"It brought back the mountains and the old days to hear again Billy's tones in his mother's voice and to see her sitting there in the very dress she wore the night of the league, you remember—some soft stuff with black lace about it—and to hear her sing as she did for Billy. Ah! Ah!"

His voice unexpectedly broke, but in a moment he was master of himself and begged me to forgive his weakness. I am afraid I said words that should not be said, a thing I never do except when suddenly and utterly upset.

"I am getting selfish and weak," he said. "I must get to work. I am glad to get to work. There is much to do, and it is worth while, if only to keep one from getting useless and lazy."

"Useless and lazy!" I said to myself, thinking of my life beside his and trying to get command of my voice, so as not to make quite a fool of myself, and for many a day those words goaded me to work and to the exercise of some mild self denial. But, more than all else, after Craig had gone back to the mountains Graeme's letters from the railway construction camp stirred one to do unpleasant duty long postponed and rendered uncomfortable my hours of most luxurious ease. Many of the old gang were with him, both of lumbermen and miners, and Craig was their minister, and the letters told of how he labored by day and by night along the line of construction, carrying his tent and kit with him, preaching straight sermons, watching by sick men, writing their letters and winning their hearts, making strong their lives and helping them to die well when their hour came.

One day these letters proved too much for me, and I packed away my paints and brushes and made my vow unto the Lord that I would be "useless and lazy" no longer, but would do something with myself. In consequence I found myself within three weeks walking the London hospitals, finishing my course, that I might join that band of men who were doing something with life or, if throwing it away, were not losing it for nothing. I had finished being a fool, I hoped, at least a fool of the useless and luxurious kind. The letter that came from Graeme in reply to my request for a position on his staff was characteristic of the man, both new and old, full of gayest humor and most earnest welcome to the work.

Mrs. Mavor's reply was like herself:

"And after all, you know, old chap, there are great compensations for all losses, but for the loss of a good conscience toward God what can make up?"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I am quite hopeless about my reading. It gave me a queer sensation to shake hands with a man who had written a great book. To hear him make commonplace remarks, to witness a faltering in knowledge—one expects these men to know everything—and to experience respectful kindness at his hands!"

But all the same, I hoped for some better result from his visit to Britain. It seemed to me that something must turn up to change such an unbearable situation.

The year passed, however, and when I looked into Craig's face again I knew that nothing had been changed and that he had come back to take up again his life alone, more resolutely hopeless than ever.

But the year had left its mark upon him too. He was a broader and deeper man. He had been living and thinking with men of larger ideas and richer culture, and he was far too quick in sympathy with life to remain untouched by his surroundings. "He was more tolerant of opinions other than his own, but more unrelenting in his fidelity to conscience and more impatient of half heartedness and self indulgence. He was full of reverence for the great scholars and the great leaders of men he had come to know.

"Great, noble fellows they are and extraordinarily modest," he said—"that is, the really great are modest. There are plenty of the other sort, neither great nor modest. And the books to be read! I

FINE OFFER TO STUDENTS.

Earn Your Incidental Fees.

We have arranged with the College to give a rebate of Incidental and Hospital Fees as a premium for new subscribers to THE CITIZEN.

For 15 Subscribers $3.75 on fees.

" 19 " 4.75 "

" 23 " 5.75 "

" 27 " 6.75 "

The subscribers must be new ones, persons not now taking THE CITIZEN, and cash subscribers.

Go to work at once and you can easily earn your incidental and hospital fees for the fall or winter term.

Send in the names and addresses, plainly written, as fast as you get them, don't wait until you get the full number but send right along. We will give you full credit for all names and when you come to enter school we will give you an order, for all you have done, on Treasurer Osborn.

Get your friends to help you. Remember THE CITIZEN is 50 cents a year. Address John Dodwell, THE CITIZEN.

SEND FOR SAMPLE COPIES.

IT NEEDS A TONIC.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland ave., Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and wouldn't be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. For sale by East End Drug Co.

REPAIR THAT LOOM.

Berea College has secured a market for homespun and home-woven goods, such as bed coverlets, linen, dress linsey, jeans, blankets, etc., at following prices:

Coverlets, $4 to $6; Linen, 40 to 50 cents a yard; Dress Linsey, 50 cents a yard; Jeans, 60 cents a yard; Blankets, natural brown wool or bark dyes, $3 a pair.

White linsey and white blankets are not in demand only on orders. Coverlets must be 2 yards (72 inches) wide, and 2½ yards (90 inches) long. All dyes used must be old fashioned home-made dyes.

Any woman who wants to sell coverlets or homespun to Berea College should find out what the College wants before beginning to weave or spin. For information apply in person or by letter to

Mrs. Hattie Graham,
Berea, Ky.

If you need a new set of harness or a good saddle, T. J. Moberley, on Main street, Richmond, opposite the Courthouse, will give you the best bargain you can get anywhere.

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25¢ per box. Sold by East End Drug Co.

THE MARKETS.

AS REPORTED BY

A. G. NORMAN & CO.

CINCINNATI, August 20.

CATTLE—Common....$2.00 @ $3.25
" Butchers....3.50 @ 6.35
" Shippers....6.50 @ 7.25
CALVES—Choice....5.50 @ 6.00
" Large Common....3.00 @ 4.00
HOGS—Common....5.50 @ 7.10
" Fair, good light....7.25 @ 7.35
" Packing....7.25 @ 7.45
SHEEP—Good to choice....3.10 @ 3.65
" Common to fair....1.25 @ 3.00
LAMBS—Good to choice....5.00 @ 6.40
" Common to fair....3.25 @ 4.75

WHEAT—No. 2 Red....68 @ 68¢
CORN.....59¢ @ 60¢
OATS—No. 2 mixed....26 @ 27
RYE—No. 2.....56 @ 57
FLOUR—Winter patent....3.50 @ 3.65
" fancy....3.15 @ 3.30
" Family....2.75 @ 2.50
MILL FEED.....14.00 @ 17.00
HAY—No. 1 Timothy....12.50 @ 13.00
" No. 2 ".....11.00 @ 11.50
" No. 1 Clover....8.00 @ 8.50
" No. 2 ".....7.00 @ 7.50

WOOL—Unwashed,
medium combing....17 @ 18
Washed long ".....22 @ 23
Tub washed.....23 @ 24

POULTRY—
Sparrows.....12
Heavy hens ".....10
Roosters ".....5
Turkey hens ".....10
Ducks ".....7
EGGS—Fresh near by.....14¢

HIDES—Wet salted....7 @ 8
" No 1 dry salt....9 @ 10
" Bull.....6 @ 7½
" Sheep skins....40 @ 60

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Meat at Welch's, 10c.

W. F. Kidd is recovering nicely.
BEST BREAD at Bicknell & Early's.

Oats and corn cheaper. Buy them at Welch's.

Bob Chrisman, of Panola, was in town Saturday.

Chester D. Erwin is recovering rapidly from the fever.

Don't forget John and Tom. They are proud of their trade.

Esquire Baker, of Wallacetown, was in town Monday morning.

Allen Wallace, son of Elas Wallace, is sick at his home.

Rev. H. J. Derthick was able to sit up a little Tuesday evening.

G. D. Holliday has nearly completed his house on Jackson street.

Farm foreman Judd returned from his New York state trip Saturday.

Mrs. Fayette Sigmond, of Mt. Vernon street, is quite poorly at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Koyl and baby boy left Monday for Freeport, Mich.

Notice to delinquents. Call on the Marshal and pay your town taxes for 1901.

Ellie Seale is getting along well, and hopes to be out about his work soon.

The Berea telephone company have nearly seventy phones installed in the town.

Two good rooms for rent up stairs down. Enquire of John Dodwell, CITIZEN Office.

Have you drinking water analyzed by E. W. Todd. Prevention is better than cure.

The Congregational church has a colored double window in front, and painted white.

Profs. Marsh and Dinsmore are home after a long round of attendance at teachers' institutes.

Died, Tuesday, after a long illness, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watkins.

The new parsonage at Second church presents a nice appearance in its coat of white paints, trimmed in green.

Mrs. Lucy Norris, of College Hill, and Miss Cricket Terrill, of Richmond, are visiting Mrs. W. J. Tatum.

The Green Gabbard property across the creek was sold last week to Wm. Lanhardt, of Jackson county, for $350.

There is no whisky for sale in Berea, so it is said, but drunken men on the street are no novelty. How about this?

Rev. W. A. Eisenhart, of Richmond, was here Monday and Tuesday assisting Dr. Burgess in his special meetings.

Marshal Tatum arrested James Vaughn on Monday for disorderly conduct. Vaughn was released on bond.

Miss Nina King has so far recovered as to be able to dispense with her special nurse, who left for home Saturday.

Buy a Studebaker wagon before they advance. Welch sells one nearly every day. Price about as low as common wagons.

Remember that next week we commence the thrilling story "CHATANOOGA." It is a story of the CIVIL WAR and well worth reading.

B. R. Robinson has purchased of Frank Taylor 21 acres of land near the C. H. Baker farm near Wallaceton. Price $24.75 an acre.

I have for sale about 20 lots, three (3) houses on them located on Owsley avenue, just off Center street.

A. J. ELDER, Berea, Ky.

All persons having notes against the estate of E. L. Logan, deceased, are hereby notified to present the same at once to B. R. Robinson, Administrator.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has a world-wide reputation for its cures. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by S. E. WELCH, JR.

During the storm on Friday afternoon one of the heavy doors in the livery stable blew down, striking John Tatum, who was sheltering there, on the eye, inflicting a painful wound.

Dr. V. H. Hobson, the dentist, of Richmond, was operated upon for appendicitis last week by Dr. W. C. Dugan at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Louisville. The operation was successful, and Dr. Hobson is recovering nicely.

Six quart tin pail, 10 cents.
Three cakes tar soap, 5 " Fourounces smelling salts, 10 "
" Sheep skins... 40 @ 60

All first quality goods at THE TEN

CENT STORE, next door to postoffice, Richmond, Ky.

WANTED—5 YOUNG MEN from Madison County at once to prepare for positions in the Government Service—Railway Mail Clerks, Letter Carriers, Custom House and Departmental Clerks, etc. Apply to Interstate Corros. Inst., Cedar Rapids, Ia.

visiting friends in this county. The people are glad to have Mrs. Hill to visit them.—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Reynolds, of Cow Creek, passed through here Friday on their way to Buffalo. Mrs. Reynolds was getting wool for a wool firm at Elkhorn.—Stewart Mayers, of South Booneville, was here Thursday on business.—J. K. Gabbard had a barn raising Wednesday. Sallie Gabbard and Elizabeth Bolin are visiting relatives in Madison county this week.—Sherman Rowland passed through here Wednesday with a nice drove of cattle.—T. L. Gabbard, of Booneville, and Chas. Everole, of Cow Creek, were here this week counting trees.—H. H. Rice has just returned from Louisville and Knoxville, where he had been to buy goods.

JACKSON COUNTY.

KERY KNOB.

A good rain has just fallen.—Rev. Wm. I. Powell goes to Blanton Flat tomorrow to attend preaching services at that place. Mr. Powell will preach at Birch Lick Sept. 6 and 7.—Last Saturday and Sunday were the monthly meeting-days of the Kerby Knob church. The services were well attended.—A Sunday school has been organized at Long Branch, and meets in the schoolhouse of District 38.—The teachers' association for the teachers of Magisterial district No. 5, will be held in the Peters schoolhouse, 5 miles from Kerby Knob.—Mrs. W. J. Daugherty has almost recovered from her severe attack of typhoid fever.—Miss Mary J. Baker passed through here last week on her return to Berea.—The young people had a pleasant time at the home of Misses Laura and Nannie Hatfield Aug. 14.

MASON COUNTY.

MAYSVILLE.

Miss Essie Williams has returned home after an extended visit to Flemingsburg.—Quite a large crowd attended the Methodist meeting held at Beach Grove Sunday.—Miss Maggie Robinson's father, of the East End, is seriously ill, and is not expected to live at this writing.—Rev. Jas. Moreland, of Paris, preached for Rev. W. H. Porter, of the Bethel, Sunday evening.—Hons. C. Ganes, of Covington, and E. Lane, of Frankfort, made some very interesting addresses to the Bethel Sunday-school Sunday morning.—Miss Mamie Grant, of Felicity, Ohio, is visiting her parents on Fifth street.—A very large crowd came on the excursion from Augusta last Sunday.

PERRY COUNTY.

DWARF.

We have a land boom here, and men are here buying up land, paying $2 an acre for mineral and $5 for land.—S. B. Richie and S. S. Campbell will have about 3,000 poplar logs hauled the coming fall and winter.—C. D. Davidson, a former student at Berea, ran his bicycle against a rock receiving a fall.—A Young Peoples Debating society is being organized in connection with our school.—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Richie on Aug. 13, a son.—Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Davidson and two sons, Alex and C. D. visited relatives in Chavies last week.—W. B. Engle and H. Owens purchased two building lots at this place. They will erect a store.—R. Lee Owens and sisters, Misses Flora and Rachel, visited their brother Saturday night.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce Geo. D. White, of the Gladie district, as candidate for Circuit Clerk of Madison county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Roy C. White as candidate for Circuit Court Clerk in Madison county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

10-3-'02.

BRICK FOR SALE.

Two hundred thousand (200,000) hard-burned brick for sale in the lot or in quantities to suit purchaser.

All whole brick $10 per 1,000, As put up in the stack (merchantable), $8 per 1,000.

GEO. D. WHITE,

Whites Station, Ky.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE RAILROAD.

Time Table in Effect July 1, 1902.

Going North. Train 6, Daily.

Leave Berea.....11:39 a.m.

Arrive Richmond.....12:10 a.m.

Arrive Paris.....3:15 p.m.

Arrive Cincinnati.....6:00 p.m.

Going South. Train 1, Daily.

Leave Berea.....1:22 p.m.

Arrive Livingston.....2:18 p.m.

J. W. STEPHENS, Ticket Agent.

Good Horse Sense

will tell you that old eggs and glue are not things you want to eat; yet some coffee roasters glaze their coffee with such things. Not so with Lion Coffee. It's just pure, unadulterated, undisguised coffee; never covered up with any glazing of any kind.

Uniform quality and freshness are insured by the sealed package.

Chicago College of Dental Surgery

(Dental Department of Lake Forest University.)

Twenty-first Annual Course of instruction will begin Oct. 1st, 1902. This is among the most, if not the best, of the leading Dental Colleges of the world. In order to complete the course of instruction in three years it is necessary to enter the coming session—1902-1903. A four year course will be required thereafter. For illustrated catalogues address

DR. TRUMAN W. BROPHY, Dean,
Wood & Harrison Sts., Chicago.

DR. FENNER'S KIDNEY and Backache CURE

All diseases of Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs, Bladder & Kidney Disease, Gravel, Dropsey, Female Troubles.

Don't become discouraged. There is a cure for you. If necessary write Dr. Fenner. He has spent a life time curing just such cases as yours. All conditions Free. "For years I had backache, severe pains across kidneys and radiating up. I could not get out of bed without help. The use of Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure restored me. G. WAGNER, Kutztown, Pa." Druggists 50c. & $1. Ask for Cook Book. Free.

ST. VITUS'DANCE Sure Cure. Circular, Dr. Fenner, Fredonia, N.Y.

Commissioner's Sale!

MILLIE S. CO., AX, etc., Plaintiffs, against NAPOLEON TERRILL, etc., Defendants.

PATENTS

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS & C.

Any one sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion as to whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications will be kept secret. Send to: MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York

Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $2 a year, four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers. MUNN & CO., 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 520 W. St., Washington, D. C.

Lost Hair

"My hair came out by the handful, and the gray hairs began to creep in. I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, and it stopped the hair from coming out and restored the color."—Mrs. M. D. Gray, No. Salem, Mass.

There's a pleasure in offering such a preparation as Ayer's Hair Vigor. It gives to all who use it such satisfaction. The hair becomes thicker, longer, softer, and more glossy. And you feel so secure in using such an old and reliable preparation.

$1.00 a